Opportunities and Temptations Shown in Exhibits - Lessons in Pictorial Form

CIVIC CLUB PROGRAM

The immigrant—what can be done with him? That is the vexatious problem treat ed in an exhibit by the Association of Philaliphia Settlements at the Philadelphia Today and Tomorrow Civic Exposition in the Commercial Museum, 34th and Spruce streats. The answer of the association is that in all the mase of American things he should find his way to the steps which lead to what is good and true. Of course, it is a hard-worked answer, old as the struggle for democracy itself, but the exhibit of the association is unique, and said by many apectators to be one of the best in the

To begin with, there is the immigrant ship. It docks beside the platform of Amer-ican opportunity. The immigrants from all lands are represented by dolls, and their lands are represented by dolls, and their size in the exhibit depends upon the numbers contained in the 1910 Philadelphia census, which showed 382,505 foreign-born persons here and 497,232 men and women of mixed foreign parentage, while the total American born, exclusive of the negro, was only 583,976, or 37.7 per cent.

These immigrants carry suitcases, which denote what they bring from foreign shores. These carry such labels as Love for Music. These carry such labels as Love for Music, Folk-Lore, Heroism, Desire for Democracy, Artistic Ability, Desire for Education, Superstition, Illiteracy, Disease, Materialism, Low Standard of Living, Crime, Cheap Labor and Business Instinct. To weed out the false from the true is the American job for the immigrant. If he does get through all this tangled maze of things he finds himself before the steps which lead to damocracy, which is only achieved by work, exchool, social interest, citizenship and liberthoods. school, social interest, citizenship and lib

THE DOWNWARD PATH

But suppose the immigrant is unable to cope with the American situation. Then he comes inevitably to the City of Destruc-tion, whose main street leads downward, which is symbolized by a row of houses. The first is the ward political club—par-ticular party unnamed. In front of it stands an old-time Bible exhorter, a few feet dis-tant from a "morty" individual who bear tant from a "sporty" individual who bears the label, "The Unvarnished Scamp," Ad-joining the political club—presumably by a mere coincidence—is a saloon, John Barleycorn, proprietor. "The Painted Lady" stands out in front—and don't forget it is next door to the ward political club. Then comes a furnished-room house, and beside it a moving-nicture place displaying the day's feature, "The Sorrows of Felice."

It is possible that Felice had these sorrows because she was a regular attendant of the establishment next door. This establishment is a dance joint catering to "gents and ladies." Satan & Co. are the proprietors. They serve free lunch and maintain a "ladies" entrance." Apparently, they do a big business between dances, and afterwarda in wines and other less expensive but equally as effective for the purpose, liquors.

DESTINY OF CHILDREN. Many children are playing in the streets. This part of the exhibit is realistic enough, but more could be added by giving a demonstration of something happening nearly every day just now—an automobile running down some youngster.

Responsible for the City of Destruction, according to a placard, are corrupt government, traffic in citizenship, civic siothfulness, class segregation, unemployment, seasonal work and low wage. When democrates racy is something more than a vague, much talked of ideal, then will be a society with health. righteous government, education, public spirit, residential democracy and in-dustrial evolution. So states another
